About the UNT SPEECH & HEARING CENTER

The University of North Texas Speech & Hearing Center has been serving people with speech, language, and hearing disorders since 1967. We strive to provide superior professional diagnostic and treatment services in speech-language pathology and audiology while providing excellence in clinical education for students in the Department of Audiology & Speech-Language Pathology at the University of North Texas. Our clinic features numerous therapy and diagnostic rooms, hearing aid technicians, a preschool language room, areas for families to observe clinical sessions, and reserved parking.

Conveniently located near downtown Denton and Interstate 35, the center attracts clients throughout northern Texas and southern Oklahoma. The center averages 5,000 client visits per year, with over 150 people receiving therapy on a weekly basis and more than 500 coming to have their speech, language, or hearing evaluated. The professional personnel include 20 speech-language pathologists and audiologists, all holding professional certification from the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association or the American Academy of Audiology and licensure from the state of Texas.

The UNT Speech & Hearing Center provides services to clients in a non-discriminatory manner without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national or ethnic origin, disability, age, sexual orientation, genetic information, citizenship, or status as a covered veteran.

For an appointment, call 940.565.2262 or email us.

The University of North Texas Speech & Hearing Center accepts referrals from community agencies, patients and their families, physicians, schools, speech-language pathologists, and other audiologists. The center accepts a wide variety of health insurance, including Medicare and Medicaid. For further information or to make an appointment, call 940.565.2262.

Articulation Bootcamp

Camps will be coordinated and supervised by licensed and certified speech-language pathologists in the UNT ASLP Department and executed by current UNT SLP graduate students.

July 6–9 (Session 1)
& July 13–16 (Session 2)

9am–12pm Ages: 5–10

Children will participate in individual and group speech-therapy activities to target speech sounds in a week-long camp while enjoying socialization, hands-on crafts, and games relevant to exciting themes.

Attendees must be independent with toileting and other self-management skills and have a documented articulation disorder from school or other speech therapist. They will also need to attend an intake appointment prior to their camp.

Eagle Express

Camps will be coordinated and supervised by licensed and certified speech-language pathologists in the UNT ASLP Department and executed by current UNT SLP graduate students.

July 6–9 (Session 1) & July 13–16 (Session 2)

9:30–11:30am Ages: 3–8

Join us for an exciting summer of speech therapy, where fun meets learning! Our week-long camp combines STEM activities, literacy-building exercises, gross motor games, and individual therapy to help kids aged 3–8 strengthen their communication skills. Each day is filled with hands-on projects, reading adventures, and group activities designed to support language development. Attendees must be independent with toileting and other self-management skills.

AAC Communication and Connection

Camps will be coordinated and supervised by licensed and certified speech-language pathologists in the UNT ASLP Department and executed by current UNT SLP graduate students.

May 26, 28

June 2, 4, 9, 11, 16, 18

10:30am–12:30pm Ages: 8–16

This three-week dynamic group on Tuesdays and Thursdays brings together similarly aged peers who use augmentative and alternative communication (AAC) for a fun, supportive, and interactive social experience. Participants will sharpen their communication skills while building real connections through games, guided conversations, and meaningful peer interactions.

To participate, attendees must currently use and bring their personal AAC system, be independent with toileting, and be able to safely engage in group activities. To ensure the best fit, we require documentation of each participant's current skill level, including their most recent evaluation and treatment goals.

Come learn, laugh, and connect with others who communicate just like you!

Lunch Bunch Social Squad

Camps will be coordinated and supervised by licensed and certified speech-language pathologists in the UNT ASLP Department and executed by current UNT SLP graduate students.

June 2, 4, 9, 11, 16, 18

11:30am–1:30pm Grades: 2–5

June 1, 3, 8, 10, 15, 17

11:30am–1:30pm Grades: 6–8

Give your child a fun and confidence-boosting summer experience!

This three-week program on Tuesdays and Thursdays for elementary-aged children and on Mondays and Wednesdays for middle-school-aged children blends learning with real-life practice, helping your child work on essential social and conversational skills – such as turn-taking, staying on topic, initiating conversations, and asking or answering questions – while also exploring important social tools like active listening, expressing feelings, understanding others' perspectives, making friends, and cooperating with peers.

Engage in activities like themed lunch days, partner challenges, and more! Participants must be verbal (AAC welcome) with no history of significant behavior concerns. Help your child communicate, connect, and thrive this summer!

Ready to Boost Your Child's Reading Confidence This Summer?

If your child struggles with reading or feels unsure when tackling longer passages, this two-week summer program is the perfect jumpstart!

Designed using evidence-based literacy practices, our program helps strengthen word decoding, increase reading fluency, and build deep comprehension of age-appropriate texts – all while expanding vocabulary in fun, meaningful ways.

Through targeted instruction, interactive reading activities, and confidence-building practice, your child will develop the foundational skills they need to become more accurate, fluent, and motivated readers.

Give your child the tools to read with confidence – and enjoy it, too.

SpeechCraft:

A Camp for Kids Who Stutter

Camps will be coordinated and supervised by licensed and certified speech-language pathologists in the UNT ASLP Department and executed by current UNT SLP graduate students.

June 15–18

1–2:30pm Ages: 4–6

3:30–5pm Ages: 7–9

A fun week-long camp that will explore stuttering and fluent speech in a theme-based setting that encourages learning, acceptance, and confident speech!

Campers will learn about the speech mechanism, play with speech strategies, and engage in activities that explore feelings that accompany our stuttering. The tasks will be experiential, active, and will be based on evidence-based practices.

Ready, Set, College!

Camps will be coordinated and supervised by licensed and certified speech-language pathologists in the UNT ASLP Department and executed by current UNT SLP graduate students.

June 22–25

3:30–5pm High School Juniors & Seniors

This is a camp group geared towards juniors and seniors in high school. Join us for an epic four days of fun and good vibes! We will engage in activities, discussions, and games as we work on social language and executive function skills to prepare for college. We will practice social situations, increase awareness of social thinking, and work to get ready for the university experience! Come get empowered so you can feel confident and ready for the next step!

Brain Health Happy Hour

Camps will be coordinated and supervised by licensed and certified speech-language pathologists in the UNT ASLP Department and executed by current UNT SLP graduate students.

June 3, 10, 17, 24

11am–12:30pm Adults 40+

A four-week program for adults interested in enhancing their knowledge and understanding of brain health. This fun camp-like program will present evidence-based information and research on a variety of topics such as cognition, exercise, nutrition, and socialization and how it relates to brain health. These topics will be explored through active and engaging tasks and speakers. Each program attendee will learn ways to improve their brain health and will walk away with a home program and goals to help them to potentially boost their overall longevity and quality of life.
